THE THREE PREACHERS.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

One is old, with locks of white,

And a bigot's flory scorn;

Man to misery is born!

Back-be humble and obay"

Soft he talks, as if he sung,

And his words, as from a book,

And be happy all ye lands!

Pate is law, and law is perfect,

If ye meddle, ye will mar;

Change is rash and over was so,

We are happier as we are."

Mightler is the younger preacher;

Genius finshes from his eyes;

Throbbing bosoms for replies.

While his stirring accents fall;

FORWARD! ye deluded nations,

Man was made for healthful effort:

Tyranny has crushed him long:

He shall march from good to better

And do battle with the wrong

Standing still is childish folly,

Going backward is a crime;

None should patiently endure

To be conquered by the right;

While an error clouds the reason

While oppression lifts a finger

To affront us by his might;

Of a universal heart.

Onward! keep the march of Time-

Any ill that he can cure.

Progress is the rule of all.

Awod they listen, yet elated,

And the crowds who hear his voice, Give him, while their hearts rejoice,

With an air of self-content,
